Dear Soho, you mean the world to me.

When I moved to NYC, you were my creative haven. The galleries, shops, restaurants and, most importantly, the people inspired me. Your siren call led me to quit my job and take a tiny space at a pottery collective in a dilapidated loft on Mercer Street. I was a broke but happy Soho artiste.

Cut to today. Less broke, still happy, and still making pots in Soho. I'm thrilled to introduce our new global headquarters: a whole building on West Broadway that we call Atelier Adler.

It has it all—product and interior design studios, our corporate offices, a groovy retail space and, at the heart of it all, moi's pottery studio.

Come visit Atelier Adler. This is home, and I can't wait to welcome you in.
